Who doesn't like to make new friends when there are no fees applied? So the main question is, are you ready to make new friends by yourself? Not sure where to find new friends easily? If so, then you must become a Badoo user. This app will help you connect with millions conveniently. However, its application is only available for smartphones. So in our guide, we'll describe how to download Badoo for PC and laptop. Whatever OS version you've installed in your computer, you'll still be able to install Badoo for Windows and Mac. But before you lead to such a guide, let's have a little chat about the app. Badoo Overview Badoo is a social media platform based in Russia that was first introduced in mid-2006. In the beginning, it was just a gaming platform linked to Facebook. But when it became popular, manufacturers began to think about delivering their social site. Finally in 2012, the official online version of Badoo was released on the market. As it is made for people to bring people together under one roof, they decided to provide a mobile app for their fans. However, the amazing part is that, just like FaceApp, its developers are from Russia, but the number of most users are from the United States. How do I reach Badoo? There are two different types of users on Badoo, one is the verified user and the other is not verified. To start using the app, users are required to enter their first and last name. Enter their email account and set a passcode. When users have completed the registration forums, a verification link is sent to their email account. They must open the link sent for verification if they want to become a user. But this verification is just the beginning, the app will always ask you to enter your phone number or connect your Badoo account to another social media platform. If you do this, you are a verified user and you have access to all of its services. But if you don't do this necessary verification process, you won't be able to use all the services of this fascinating online platform. Is Badoo Dating free? Badoo dating service is free for verified users. Consumers can communicate with the people who are the most intrusive. If they answer you well, then maybe you have a good chance of meeting a good character. As for users who don't have a verified account, they may have trouble getting someone to date them through the app. How do I access Badoo if it's blocked? In case you are connected to a network does not allow you to use Badoo. You can still use services like Astrill VPN, PrivateVPN and Opera Max to unlock Badoo. It doesn't matter, even if you use public WiFi or connected to an industrial network, you can still use VPN services to circumvent these restrictions online.
